Accidents Are Reported On Weekend

The Murray Police Department reported this morning that they arrested two public drunks Sunday and placed them in the city jail.

Two automobile accidents occurred in the city limits of Murray on Saturday.

At 4:07 p. m. Patrolman H. E. Wilson and Martin Wells investigated an accident on South 9th.

They said, Frances Raine Walker, driving a 1963 Buick, was attempting to pass the 1955 Ford, driven by Opal Phelps McClure, as she was making a left turn into a driveway on South 9th Street.

Walker's car hit the left quarter panel of the Ford as they were both headed south on 9th Street.

Patrolman Wilson also investigated the accident at 4:25 p. m. on North Second Street when Marshall Foster pulled around the 1961 Volkswagen, belonging to O. T. Stalls, as it was parked on North 2nd Street headed north.

Foster cut back in and hit the left front of the Volkswagen with his right rear of the car. Wilson said Foster was attempting to get back into the right lane of traffic to avoid an oncoming car. No injuries were reported.

MURRAY

Out at Clifford's Gulf Station at Five Points, Clifford has a long oval shaped flower plot made of concrete. During the summer the bed was ablaze with Zinnias of all colors.

They got really rank and in August he pulled them all up.

Well apparently some of the seeds fell out and when we had some nice rains, the seeds sprouted and the bed is full of Zinnias again just blooming up a storm.

Clifford says he didn't plant this second crop, they just came up. Drive by and take a look.

We brought in our hanging fern basket last Friday and none too quickly. We had a whole of a frost Saturday morning.

Pulled the gourds too and brought them in the house to dry out. We would like to have on the gourds, but in all good conscience we can't. They look pretty sorry.

Stottlemire Will Seek Second Win

By STEVE SNIDER
UPI Sports Writer
NEW YORK (UPI) — Mel Stottlemire, 22-year-old rookie right-hander of the New York Yankees, sought his second World Series victory and a tie-breaker in the fifth game against the St. Louis Cardinals today with the series all square at 2-2.

Opposing the lean Yankee sink-bat was the Cardinals' ace, Bob Gibson.

BULLETIN CARDINALS WIN

NEW YORK (UPI) — The St. Louis Cardinals led the New York Yankees, 2-0, at the end of 8 1/2 innings in the fifth game of the 1964 World Series, but Tom Tresh blasted a homer with one man on in the bottom of the ninth to tie the game 2-2.

In the top of the tenth McCarver slammed a homer with two men on to give the Cardinals a 3-2 score.

Ken Boyer caught the final out and the game by reaching over two rows of seats to catch a foul ball.

The Cardinals now hold a 3 to 2 standing in the first five games of the 1964 World Series.

er-baller was the man he outpitched in the second game at St. Louis, pitcher Bob Gibson, also a right-hander.

A bright sun sent temperatures into the 80s for the third game at Yankee Stadium that will determine which of these two old rivals has the edge when the series shifts to St. Louis for the sixth game Wednesday.

Gibson was 19-12 for the Cards in the National League but was charged with the second game defeat as Stottlemire went all the way on a seven-inning for an 8-3 triumph. The young Yankee, called up from Richmond last Aug. 11, had a 9-3 record in the closing American League weeks.

Manager Johnny Keane of the Cards switched his lineup slightly to counter right-handed pitching, moving up Bill White to the third spot and dropping Dick Groat to fifth.

Yogi Berra of the Yankees switched Joe Pepitone and Tom Tresh from Sunday's positions. Pepitone batted sixth and Tresh seventh.

Program In Nursing Sees Approval

Murray State College has been notified by the National League of Nursing that the college's baccalaureate degree program in nursing has been granted "reasonable assurance for accreditation" by the league.

MSC Pres. Ralph H. Woods, in announcing the league's decision, said that this was a first important step in achieving full accreditation for the college program and that it also made the college eligible to apply for federal funds to construct a nursing education building.

Murray began its nursing program this fall after receiving the approval of the Kentucky State Nursing League. The National League of Nursing gives full accreditation to college nursing programs only after a program has been in operation for three years and has met all the league's requirements.

Dr. Woods said that the college would now proceed with plans for a nursing building. This building would be a three-story structure of concrete, brick, and steel, containing all facilities necessary for a proper program in nursing.

Before beginning the degree program in nursing this fall, Murray had offered a diploma program since 1947.

Expected To Remain In Orbit For 24 Hours; Reds Jubilant

By HENRY SHAPIRO
United Press International

MOSCOW (UPI) — Russia today launched the first passenger-carrying space ship.

A pilot and two passengers — a scientist and a doctor — were aboard the craft launched at 3:30 a. m. EDT. Moscow television said the space ship "Voskhod" sunrise had gone into orbit and was operating smoothly.

The launching of the first space craft to carry more than one person came 3 1/2 years after the Russians sent Yuri Gagarin as the first man in space. The American two-man "Geminii" space shot is not expected until February at the earliest. The first three-man U.S. spaceship probably will not be launched for at least two years.

Soon after the start of Voskhod's flight, which was expected to last at least 24 hours, the Soviets hinted at an even more spectacular space feat. The official Soviet News Agency Tass quoted a visiting French space scientist as saying that one or two of them to venture outside the space craft during the flight.

May Leave Ship
Tass said it had interviewed Jean Couombe, chairman of France's National Center for Space Research, in Leningrad and quoted him as saying: "The fact that there are three spacemen in one ship will enable one or two of them to venture outside the ship."

Voskhod was orbiting the earth every 90 minutes on a path taking it as far as 255.6 miles from the earth and as near as 112.5 miles. The pilot and flight commander is Col. Vladimir M. Komarov, 37, whose hobby is strumming the guitar and singing folk music.

The engineering scientist is Konstantin Feoktistov, 36, who, according to Tass, is not a Communist. The doctor is Boris Yegorov, 37, who became a physician only three years ago.

Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev talked to the space ship by radio and promised the men an overwhelming welcome when they return to earth. The Soviet television carried the first transmission from aboard Voskhod.

The flight was man's 13th journey into space.

Red Square filled up with Russians screaming, shouting and tossing objects into the air. Picnics were quickly produced reading "glory to the Soviet astronauts."

Tass said the space ship has "been brought into orbit close to the calculated one."

Unofficial sources said the scientist's name is Boris Yegorov and the doctor is Konstantin Feoktistov. Radio Moscow said the captain and his two passengers are "feeling fine."

The 13th space flight in world history.

story is "operating normally," Radio Moscow said.

It said the ship, the first of the Voskhod model is spinning around the earth once every 90.1 minutes.

According to Radio Moscow, the seventh Soviet space ship is gliding out as far as 254.1 miles and coming in as near as 105.6 miles from the earth as it orbits.

Moscow television began flashing photographs of the new spacemen at 11:55 a. m. 4:55 a. m. EDT.

The flight poses the Russians ahead of the American "Geminii" program for orbiting a two-man capsule. The first Geminii originally was scheduled to go up late last year but delays have extended the projected blast-off to next February at the earliest. An unmanned Geminii test-run is scheduled for this Nov. 17.

Today's Soviet flight climaxes months of unannounced space activity, including the launching of 22 Cosmos research satellites and four electron probes.

The Russians previously have "two people" in space at the same time, but not in the same vehicle. Adrian Nikolayev and Pavel Popovich orbited simultaneously on Aug. 1962, and Valery Bykovsky and Valentina Tereshkova, historic first spacemen, overlapped in space flights in June, 1963.

Moscow television said the new Soviet space craft will stay aloft at least 24 hours.

Feoktistov's photograph showed him to be a long-faced blond man. Dr. Yegorov's picture was that of a moon-faced man with dark hair. The space craft is named "Voskhod," which means "Sunrise" or "Dawn."

The Russians call their vehicle a "passenger space ship," indicating their greater emphasis on automatic controls.

The commander has been a military man to the Soviet public. He is now a doctor known only as Mr. "K."

The Radio Moscow domestic service said the frequencies of the "Voskhod" are:

Radio: 143.025 megacycles, 17.025 megacycles and 18.035 megacycles. Telemetry: 19.9943 megacycles. The Soviet news agency Tass said the space ship has been put into orbit close to the prescribed orbit. Two-way radio communication is being maintained with the craft, it said, and the ship's three-man crew reported they "without doubt" will launch the launch and the transition to weightlessness.

"All three feel fine," Tass said. All systems on board the "Voskhod" are functioning normally, Tass said, and subsequent reports on the flight will be broadcast by all radio stations of the Soviet Union.

Moscow television announcer Yuri Levitan, the man who has broadcast all big Soviet news for the past 25 years, came on the screen to hail the latest Soviet space speedster.

The capital of communism was agog. Crowds vanished from the streets as Muscovites flocked to radios and television sets.

Only a few children and some women shoppers could be seen on the normally crowded sidewalks.

The official Soviet news agency Tass said the aims of the new space flight are:

—To test the new multi-seat guided space ship.

—To check the capacity for work and interaction during the space flight of a group of cosmonauts consisting of specialists in different fields of science and technology.

—To carry out scientific and technical investigations into the conditions of a space flight.

—To continue the study of the effects of different factors of space flight on man's organism.

—To carry out extended medical-biological research in the conditions of a long flight.

Weight Loss Big Problem Of Astronauts

By AL ROSSITER JR.

United Press International

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI) — American astronauts are all terribly enthusiastic about experiencing it. But there's one problem.

"It's the weightlessness," a sensation so pleasant during lengthy cosmic flights that it tends to be addictive. It is one of the most critical dangers facing man in space.

At stake in the weird world of weightlessness are possible changes to man's muscles, bones, heart and circulatory system and to his sensory instincts that affect balance and orientation.

Of even more concern to scientists is zero gravity itself is the sudden change thrust upon the human body from weightlessness to gravity several times normal on a space ship's return to earth after a long space mission.

If zero gravity for long durations proves to be harmful, all is not lost. Scientists say effective artificial gravity can probably be created by spinning a space station or part of it.

Weightlessness, except for a seconds, cannot be duplicated on earth. The only way to study possible effects is to send men on long space voyages.

That is what the United States plans to do. The two-man Gemini flights, scheduled to start in December, with a three-orbit test flight, will be loaded with medical experiments to see how zero gravity affects astronauts for up to two weeks.

The Air Force hopes to take a step further. It manned orbiting laboratory, now in the early planning stages, will keep men in space under weightless conditions for a month. The first flights are expected in 1968.

Many scientists feel that zero gravity effects on man, if any, will not become evident until after several months of weightlessness. To those Aeromedical and Space Administration NASA is studying the possibility of orbiting manned space stations for up to three months or more.

Manager Of Ice Show Is Very Happy

By JACK GAVER

UPI Drama Editor

NEW YORK (UPI) — Operators in other branches of the entertainment business may complain of ups and downs and grouse about insecurity and the fickleness of the public, but ice show impresario George W. Eby doesn't join in the refrain.

"The show gets bigger and the business gets better year after year," said the tallish, president of "Ice Capades," which winds up its annual engagement at Madison Square Garden Sunday night and takes off on a 24-city tour that will not end until next May 23.

"This 25th anniversary edition of the show had a production cost of a million dollars. We spend more each year and not simply because the price of everything keeps rising."

This year, for example, we have introduced something never used by an ice show before—a two-level stage at one end of the arena and a rear projection screen at the top level where we use film to give added scenic effects and a sort of fourth dimension.

Business increases

"Our business seems to get better each year. This time we played here for four weeks instead of the usual three. The move paid off."

Eby, who started with "Ice Capades" as its treasurer two years after the show was created and became president last year, believes that growing interest in ice shows is due to great public interest in skating itself and in winter sports in general.

"The increase in the number of rinks and instruction places around the country in recent years has been astonishing," he said. "I have a theory that part of this has been due to the extensive coverage television has given to the Winter Olympics in the past eight years, through three Olympiads. This couldn't help but arouse great American interest in winter sports, to which we must pay too much attention in the past."

"Ice Capades" is a continuing operation that takes up 12 months a year.

"I leave here to go back to headquarters in Los Angeles where we will start immediately preparing the 26th edition which will be here next August and September," Eby said. "We never stop."

Two companies

"In addition, we actually have two companies. There is this national company, which inaugurates every new edition, and then there is a local company that starts out every September and plays an entirely different route with the previous edition. It has just started here a year ago."

Demos Wooing Purchase To Preserve Vote

By CAROLE MARTIN

United Press International

FRANKFORT, Ky. 876 — Kentucky Democrats, anxious to preserve the so-called "Old Guard of Democracy," will use every national and state party figure they can in the 1st Congressional District between now and Nov. 3.

The date has not yet been confirmed, but Sen. Robert H. Humphrey, the Democratic vice presidential nominee, will probably make his second Kentucky campaign appearance at Paducah.

Humphrey addressed a major eastern Kentucky rally at Prestonsburg Sept. 26.

A party honoring state Treasurer Emerson Doe Beauchamp's more than half century of service to the Democratic party at Russellville Oct. 17 is expected to turn into a major political rally for the district, with all the top brass of the Kentucky party on hand, and a speech by former Missouri Gov. John Dalton.

Since Dalton is going to be in Kentucky, plans have been made for him to deliver a speech that night at Murray, too.

This Thursday, North Carolina Gov. Terry Sanford and his wife, the former Margaret Rose Knight, of Hopkinsville, will be honored at a 1st District rally in Hopkinsville.

And last weekend, W. Averell Harriman, roving ambassador for the United States, got in a few words at the International Banana Festival at Fulton.

The Democrats are taking no chances on the usually "safe" 1st District because of the civil rights issue.

Although one administration source reports, "We don't have the problem we thought we'd have in the first," he did not dismiss the role anticivil rights feelings may play in the Nov. 3 outcome.

Their main concern is how the presidential balloting goes since Rep. Frank A. Stubblefield is opposed in his bid for re-election to Congress.

The Democrats have taken the tack of stressing the importance of the Tennessee Valley Authority to Western Kentucky, and repeating Republican presidential candidate Barry M. Goldwater's statements in opposition to the present role of TVA.

"We expect that the Republicans will make the most of the civil rights issue during the next two weeks or so," an administration source said.

So far the civil rights issue apparently has been skirted, but one elected state official cautioned that the GOP strategy would be to wait until the last weeks of the campaign.

State Republican campaign leaders say they will not make civil rights an issue in western Kentucky, but local partisans have injected race in that area in the past two elections.

Cards Show Yanks They Have Big Stick Too In Sunday Game

By FRED DOWN
UPI Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UPI) — The St. Louis Cardinals showed the New York Yankees in Sunday's fourth game of the World Series that they, too, have a big stick.

The Yankees' big stick, of course, is Mickey Mantle, whose tape-measure home run gave New York a 1-0 victory in Saturday's third game.

The Cardinals' big stick all Ken Boyer, who belted 285 with 24 homers and 119 runs batted in but had made only one hit in 13 trips to the plate until he batted in the sixth inning Sunday with the bases filled and one out.

The Yankees were leading 3-0 behind the fast ball pitching of Al Downing but Boyer electrified the crowd of 66,312 by lining a 1-0 pitch into the lower left field stands for a grand slam homer that produced the Cardinals' 4-3 series-winning triumph.

Sharing honors with the 33-year-old native of Liberty, Mo., were relief pitchers Roger Craig and Ron Taylor, who limited the Yankees to two hits after relieving Ray Sadecki in the first inning, Sadecki, making his second start of the series, didn't retire a batter and was charged with all three New York runs.

Struck Out Eight

Craig got out of the first inning at the expense of one hit and then struck out eight while allowing only one more hit for the next four innings. Taylor, who took over after Craig departed for successful pinch-hitter Carl Warwick in the winning sixth-inning rally, allowed one hit and struck out two through the final four innings.

Warwick opened the Cardinal sixth with a single—his third pinch hit of this series tying the all-time series record shared by Bobby Brown of the 1947 Yankees and Dusty Rhodes of the 1954 New York Giants.

Curt Flood followed with a single and the rally died a bit when Lou Brock fled out. But then came the big break for the Cardinals.

Bobby Richardson fielded Dick Groat's medium-speed grounder to the right of second base but missed connections with shortstop Phil Linz on a very difficult play at second base and all hands were safe when the ball squirmed loose from Linz' glove. Richardson was charged with the error.

Boyer took a ball and then lined a high inside pitch by Downing deep into the left field stands for the ninth grand slam homer in World Series history.

Linz Starts Rally

Linz led off the Yankee first with a looping double to right field and made third when K. Boyer threw wildly during the rundown after Tim McCarver picked him off second. Richardson doubled to score one run and went to third on Roger Maris' short single to right. Mantle delivered the second New York run with a single to right field that sent Maris to third. But Mickey was cut down trying to stretch the hit into a double on Mike Shannon's fine throw to second baseman Dal Maxvill.

Craig replaced Sadecki at that point and yielded a single to Elson Howard that produced the third Yankee run before getting out of the inning by striking out Tom Tresh and retiring Pettipiece on a pop fly.

After that it was up to Craig to hold the Yankees until the Cardinals got to Downing and then Taylor to protect the one-run lead.

UK Savors Worst Licking In 19 Years; Two Team Winners

By United Press International

While the University of Kentucky looked the worst of its worst defeat in 19 years, two other Kentucky football teams today were savoring the taste of their first collegiate victories this season.

The newcomers to the win column Saturday were the University of Louisville and Centre College. Louisville downed Dayton 21-7 and Centre celebrated its Homecoming game with an 8-0 upset of Washington and Lee.

In the Ohio Valley Conference, Morehead got the tough battle it had expected from Murray but escaped with a 17-14 victory. Western Kentucky routed itself from early-season doldrums to the unbeaten Austin Peay 6-6, and Eastern Kentucky lost to Middle Tennessee 20-13.

Unbeaten Kentucky State College breezed to a 40-0 conquest of Wheaton, Ill. College. The Thorobred's four-game winning streak may come to a halt this Saturday, however, when they move up in competition to take on Marshall University.

The headline in the OVC this Saturday pits Austin Peay against Morehead in the Homecoming game for coach Guy Penny's Morehead Eagles. The winner of that contest will emerge as a strong contender for the conference crown.

Morehead is tied with Middle Tennessee for the OVC lead, each with a 2-0 record in the conference. Austin Peay has two wins and a tie in the OVC.

Middle Tennessee, unbeaten in its last nine games, had to come up with a touchdown in the last three minutes to defeat Eastern.

Austin Peay missed a chance for victory over Western when Ron Parson was off target with a 30-yard field goal attempt in the final 11 seconds.

The Morehead-Murray game featured a duel between rival quarterbacks Mike Gottfried of Morehead and Charlie Forrest of Murray. Forrest, the OVC total offense leader had the better of it as he picked up 115 net yards in 14 carries. Gottfried, the leading passer in the conference, completed 6 of 10 heaves for 91 yards. Both quarterbacks scored once.

However, a 35-year field goal by Tally Johnson provided Morehead's victory margin.

Other OVC encounters this Saturday find Eastern Kentucky at home against East Tennessee and Western Kentucky visiting Tennessee Tech. Murray goes outside the conference to meet the University of Tennessee Branch at Martin, Tenn.

The University of Louisville, finally untracked from its three-game losing rut, entertains powerful Tulsa University Saturday night in its second Missouri Valley Conference clash.

Kentucky hopes to rebound from the 48-6 lacing it suffered against Florida State when the Wildcats tangle with unbeaten Louisiana State in a Southeastern Conference game at Lexington Saturday.

Georgetown, idle last Saturday, returns to action this Saturday in a game with Principia College at Elmhurst, Ill. Centre seeks its second straight win in a Saturday afternoon tussle with Hanover at Danville.

It takes 1000 tons of coal to build just 1 mile of concrete highway!

That totals approximately 700,000 tons of coal if Kentucky uses concrete to complete its Interstate Highways. Kentucky needs new coal markets, new highways. Concrete brings the two together. The result? Better business. Better highways. Today's new-type concrete is smooth and solid all the way... is laid flat to stay flat. It actually has a life expectancy of 50 years and longer, with upkeep expense 75% less than for asphalt (based on Kentucky records). This is vital because the Federal Government pays 90% of initial construction cost—but not a single cent for maintenance. Add it up. Concrete means greater coal usage, greater driving comfort, and greater maintenance savings.

Fred Bullard, President of the Kentucky Coal Association, says: "Cement and reinforcing steel are two basic ingredients of the modern concrete highway. With their high consumption of coal during manufacture, we believe that paving Kentucky's Interstate Highways with concrete would be an invaluable aid to the state's coal industry."

THE KENTUCKY COAL ASSOCIATION Lexington, Ky.

Dear Abby . . .
She Was A Miss-take!
Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am a college freshman. I drew a girl's name for the freshman mixer. When I called for her at her dorm I was pleased to find a nice-looking girl with a friendly personality. After one dance she suggested we go somewhere and "talk." We spoke hardly ten minutes when she was all over me. I spent most of the evening trying to talk her out of what she was trying to do with me. Abby, I want to be sure for the girl I marry, but if this is any example of what I have to put up with, I am going to have some fight on my hands. How can a fellow act like a gentleman with college girls without getting the reputation for being a square or a cold fish?

SAVING MYSELF

DEAR SAVING: Don't identify all college girls with the miss you got mixed up with at the mixer. Hang on to your gentlemanly instincts and your reputation will take care of itself.

DEAR ABBY: I just read the letter from the lady whose husband keeps his first wife's picture on his dresser. There must be lots of us. I have been a second wife for 12 years, and I can sympathize with her. My husband still carries his first wife's picture in his wallet. (None of me.) He named OUR son after his first wife's father. He also has moved a cardboard carton of her love letters around with us every time we've moved. Why don't men who just can't love again hire a housekeeper and leave women who need love and affection alone? Please print this. My husband reads your column. I think I have taken enough punishment for a loss I had nothing to do with.

BLUE DOMESTIC APPLIANCE

DEAR APPLIANCE: If your husband is really the cad you portray him to be, you'd do better hiring yourself out as a housekeeper. At least if you didn't like the place, you could quit.

DEAR ABBY: I have a friend with whom I went all through school. I shall call her Mary. Mary has many good qualities, but she doesn't make friends easily. I believe I am her only friend. A few months ago I became acquainted with another girl. I will call her June. June is a very likeable person and has many friends. Mary let me know that she did not care for June, but I didn't see what that had to do with me. Now Mary has told me that if I don't give up June's friendship she and I can't be friends any more. I like them both, Abby, but don't want to make a choice. We are not kids. We are all young married women. What would YOU do if faced with such a choice?

DEAR TROUBLED: I'd choose June. No one has the right to dictate who your other friends shall be.

CONFIDENTIAL TO BIG BROWN EYES: Yes, some women have husbands who cheat and lie. Yours confesses to you, which means he only cheats. Big deal! You're only half-sister!

Troubled? Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif. For a personal reply, enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Farm Bureau In Action

by Tevis Bennett
Kentucky Farm Bureau Fed.

Senate Kills Dirksen Reapportionment Amendment

By Tevis Bennett

The Senate September 24 in its 44-40 vote to accept a weak and ineffective substitute for the Dirksen amendment to the foreign aid bill killed legislative efforts to delay application of the Supreme Court reapportionment decision.

The Dirksen amendment would have limited temporarily the appellate jurisdiction of the federal courts so as to avoid immediate pressure on the states to comply with the Supreme Court's legislative reapportionment decisions and give the states time to consider ratification of a Constitutional amendment.

The substitute, offered by Senator Mike Mansfield (D-Montana), merely expresses the "sense of Congress" that the Judiciary should proceed slowly in legislative reapportionment cases. It does not have the effect of law. It was opposed by Senators who had spoken in favor of prompt and effective action.

After the Senate voted, Jack Welch, president of the Kentucky Farm Bureau Federation had this to say:

"The defeat of the bi-partisan proposal to delay application of the Supreme Court reapportionment decision is highly regrettable.

"The time-tested and successful pattern of representation on an area basis in the U.S. Senate and on a population basis in the U.S. House of Representatives provides a workable system which assures a truly representative government with consideration for minority and area interest.

"It is an essential part of our Constitutional system of checks and balances. The same pattern should certainly be permitted in state and local units of government.

"All of our Congressmen in Kentucky except one were with us in our effort to get the Dirksen amendment passed, and we commend them for their wise judgement."

The Kentucky Farm Bureau for some time has favored a change in the State Constitution which would establish one house of the state legislature with permanent districts on a geographical or area basis, and the other house continuing to be apportioned by population.

I am sure that this battle over reapportionment of state legislatures is now over. In fact, it will probably continue when Congress convenes in January 1965.

Race, White Backlash Hidden Issues

By RICHARD C. LONGWORTH and MICHAEL KRAFT
United Press International
LONDON (UPI) — Race and the white backlash are the hidden issues of the British election campaign.

The ingredients are the same as in America—a growing urban colored population, housing and job pressures and politicians and party workers willing to make capital out of one of this century's great social problems.

Politicians have tried to keep the race issue in the shadows. Only recently has there come the realization that Britain's colored population—probably less than 2 per cent of the nation as a whole—could have a major impact on the outcome of Thursday's election.

This could be a positive impact of the voting power of the approximately 750,000 Negroes, Indians and Pakistanis—all grouped in this country as "colored"—most of whom congregate in certain overcrowded slum areas and could swing the outcome in several constituencies by voting as a bloc. Few, however, are expected to use their vote. The backlash is a greater threat.

Could Make Difference
Experts estimate the issue could make the difference in up to 20 constituencies. In an election that starts up as being closer than any in the past 15 years, the impact COLLEGE MAN AT 16—Mike Groat, 16, the youngest full-time student ever enrolled at Michigan State University, hits the books in East Lansing. He's a math whiz. He has been taking courses parttime for more than a year.

MADE A MOLEHILL OUT OF A MOUNTAIN—This is A.T. & T.'s new bomb-proof, blizzard-proof facility under a mountain near Charlottesville, Va., a building (upper) and nearly finished (lower). It is one of a network of microwave relay stations being built. The vehicle entrance is at the third floor. Basic construction, the builder, gouged out the top of the mountain, built the building; then put mountain back.

ance of race is obvious.

Many Englishmen living in the country or in small towns would say race is a problem. For many city dwellers, the new dark-skinned citizens of Britain are only anonymous faces pushing brooms or taking tickets on buses.

Most of Britain's colored came in under laws allowing immigration to all commonwealth citizens. Immigration was restricted in 1962 to persons with a job, a move that cut the immigration flow by about 90 per cent.

The Labor party opposed that law—and earned the enmity of many white voters. All three major parties now back the law and the Conservatives want to see it tightened. None has proposed laws to ease the lot of the colored people already here or for speeding their integration into British society.

Detests Growing Crisis

American in Britain detect a growing crisis similar to that in the northern United States. There are no discrimination laws. But the "whites only" signs are out on jobs and houses and a second generation of immigrants—raised and educated in England—is moving toward the day when it will demand the white man's homes.

In some areas the situation already is acute. One is Nottingham, where a race riot exploded in 1958. Another is London's Notting Hill district where another 1958 race riot broke out and where slum landlords have grown fat off racial tensions.

Yet another is Smethwick, a grimy industrial suburb of Birmingham, England's second largest city and birthplace of an unsavory campaign whisper, "If you want a nigger neighbor, vote Labor."

GRAHAM SAYS COMMUNISTS BIDE TIME FOR ANARCHY TO FELL U.S.

Omaha (UPI) — America is in a rut of "moral decadence" and the Communists "are just waiting to move into the vacuum," Evangelist Billy Graham said Monday.

The Rev. Mr. Graham told 16,000 persons at the Omaha Crusade that "we are living in a period of moral decadence. Rebellion is everywhere. Children are rebelling against their parents and against the authorities.

"We are on the verge of a breakdown of law and order," he said. "The result will be anarchy and the Communists are just waiting to move into the vacuum."

Graham said the Communists "want America intact."

"They want our industries and our material wealth, so they are waiting until we are soft enough for them to take over. The great need is for a spiritual awakening that will turn back the tide of evil."

The United States is in trouble "internationally, domestically, morally and psychologically," he said. "We are in trouble in Viet Nam. We won't get in and we can't get out."

On the domestic scene, he said the United States is spending "our grand-children's money."

"I could live like a millionaire too if I borrowed money in the name of my grandchildren," he said. "I may be old-fashioned, but I always thought when you borrowed money you are supposed to pay it back."
